Resumo

Full-Stack Developer | Airline Pilot

A multi-skilled Full-Stack developer with hands-on experience in developing. I've graduated at Microverse, where people from all over the world join together to build different projects. I've spent the last several months completely immersed in remote development, pair-program, building webpages with JavaScript, React/Redux and Ruby/Rails.

I've managed to develop extensive knowledge in:

- Front-End: JavaScript | React | Redux | jQuery | HTML5 | CSS3 | SASS | Bootstrap | TailwindCSS | Adobe Photoshop | Canva
- Back-End: Ruby | Rails | SQL
- Tools & Methods: Git | GitHub | Netlify | Render | Mobile/Responsive Development | RSpec | Capybara | TDD | Chrome Dev Tools
- Professional: Remote Pair-Programming | Teamwork | Mentoring | Project Management
- Product management: UI design | UX Design | Prototyping | Wireframing

Before transitioning into software development, I worked as an executive pilot for 2 years. The type of work was definitely different from development, but I certainly learned several skills I now use everyday as a developer: effective problem-solving, great communication, multi-tasking, and more. Working under pressure and following tight deadlines is something already natural for me because of those previous experiences. Also, during the pandemic situation, I've worked for 2 years as a video/photo editor and got some great skills I can now use on my projects. Knowing those things makes all the difference when I'm polishing the final delivery of the project, especially things related to front-end development.

Passionate about ideating, conceptualizing, and producing consumer-centric as well as B2B technology and technology-enabled products from level zero. I'm really excited to mix both my previous experiences together and explore new Full-Stack development opportunities. Teaching and learning is what I love, so feel free to connect if you'd like to chat about anything.
